About the Journal

Focus and Scope

Estudios de Economía Aplicada is a peer-reviewed journal focused in the publication of empirical and theoretical papers in every field of Economics. Contributions which make use of the methods of mathematics, statistics, econometrics and operations research will be welcomed.

In line with this strategic objective we aim to achieve a high level of scientific quality, without depreciating the clarity of expression, helping to develop a comprehensive communication between the different lines of expertise existing within Applied Economics, facilitating the dialogue and reciprocal understanding.

Indexation: Scopus, EconLit, RePec, Isoc, Latindex, Dialnet, Redalyc.

Peer Review Process

Submissions into the journal scope will be subject to a peer review process. Reviewers are invited to decide if a) the manuscript can be published in its actual version; b) revision is needed; c) the manuscript is not suitable for publication.

If there are discrepancies between two reviewers, the editors can decide to ask for a third opinion. The journal expects to give a first feedback to authors in no more than 30 days after the manuscript is under review.

Publication Frequency

Estudios de Economía Aplicada is a quarterly journal.

Vol. 39 No. 4 (2021): Special Issue: Managing Economic Growth in Post COVID Era: Obstacles and Prospects

The current pandemic has led economies to uncertainly. Many countries are facing devastative consequences of the Pandemic on economic development e.g. GDP, foreign trade and stock markets. Several monetary international organisations and platforms have alerted that the recent Covid-19 will have serious effects on the global economy and perhaps the effects will surpass the 2007/2008 world economic crises. Although, most of developed economies like USA, UK, Germany, China are largely affected by coronavirus, but its impact is also prevailing throughout the world including emerging and underdeveloped economies. This unprecedented situation needs urgent interventions in order to mitigate the damage on economic development around the globe. Therefore, IMF announced Rapid Credit Facility (RCF) that will provide emergency financial assistance to member countries without the need to have a full-fledged program in place. These loans which could amount up to $50 billion for low-income countries. Countries are also taking measures to mitigate the impacts of economic activities, central banks are cutting down interest rate for encourage small business, also debts rescheduling for manufacturing and serves industries in dealing with solvency and liquidity challenges. This special issue will focus on the obstacles and opportunities in economic growth.
