The purpose of this study was to examine the effect of Intellectual capital, Return on assets, and Net interest margin on the share price of Banking companies listed on the Indonesian stock exchange. This study uses a purposive sampling method for determining the sample with a population of 43 companies and a sample of 10 companies. The analytical method used in this study is the Random Effects method with the program eviews 8 Partially.*

the results of this study show that Intellectual capital has an effect on stock prices while Return on assets, and Net interest margin have no effect in detecting stock prices. Simultaneously Intellectual capital, Return on assets, and Net interest margin have a positive and significant effect on stock price detection. It is better for companies to pay more attention to the level of ability to obtain profits from stock prices (Intellectual capital) which are usually assessed to see the extent to which a company makes a profit.
